

EvictionRecords.com Achieves Highest Online Security Certification from GeoTrust

EvictionRecords.com, an online provider of tenant screening background reports, has always recognized the importance of website security. As evidence of this, the site was recently awarded the highest online security certification by GeoTrust, one of the world's largest digital certificate providers.

Boston, MA (PRWEB) December 31, 2012 -- GeoTrust ®, one of the world's largest digital certificate providers, has awarded its highest online security certification to EvictionRecords.com, an online provider of tenant screening background reports. The certification confirms that the customers of Eviction Records may perform secure online transactions with complete security.

EvictionRecords.com offers tenant screening reports for landlord and property managers. Products include statewide and national eviction background reports, statewide and national criminal background reports, and court and county criminal background report searches. For most products, which range in price from $15 to $60, customers receive the results instantly after placing an order. Products and services are available online 24 hours a day, 7 days week, anytime of the year. EvictionRecords.com is owned by Screening Intelligence LLC, a leading company in the background screening industry.

Website security has become increasingly more important as people increasingly rely on the Web to purchase products and services, manage our finances, and connect with family and friends. Consumers should think carefully before making purchases or providing sensitive information to a website because there are criminals who create fake websites with the intent of stealing money or information. Companies can show consumers that their websites are trustworthy by having their sites reviewed by GeoTrust and other certificate authority companies such as VeriSign and GoDaddy. If a site is deemed trustworthy by one of these certificate authority companies, the website address will display a green-colored bar.

Another sign that a website is secure is if the address of the site starts with “https” rather than “http” since the “s” stands for secure. In addition, a secure site will have a padlock icon in the web browser.

EvictionRecords.com has proven yet again to be a highly secure website by achieving the highest level of online security certification by GeoTrust. As such, its address bar displays the name of EvictionRecords.com's parent company, Screening Intelligence LLC, in a green color. The company chose GeoTrust because of its reputation as a leading authority in the online security space.

Customers can find out more about the security of the site by clicking on the visiting the site's Security page. Once there, customers can learn more about all of the site's security certifications, including its GeoTrust certification. The site's security has also been verified by TrustGuard and it has been accredited by the Better Business Bureau.

This past year, EvictionRecords.com began offering its customers the option of ordering with PayPal to provide its customers with the enhanced safety and security that PayPal offers.
